

■ About Us

The Former Residence of YOSHIDA Shigeru was a private residence of YOSHIDA Shigeru in. He was the Japanese Prime Minister in 1940-1950s. In 1887, YOSHIDA's foster father bought land in Oiso, and he built a holiday villa there. After his father died, YOSHIDA inherited it along with other property. He spent his later years in this residence.

This building was restored after it was burnt down in 2009. We rebuilt "Osetsu-to"(built around 1947), and "Shin-kan"(new buildings) that were designed by the famous architect YOSHIDA Isoya in the 1930s. YOSHIDA Isoya invented a new architectural style. He made modern Japanese houses that were based on the style of "Sukiya", a Japanese traditional tea ceremony building. The Former Residence of YOSHIDA Shigeru was reconstructed in his style: a mix of Art Deco and Japanese traditional architecture but modern construction materials and so on were used.
